

Interactive Reading Websites

The websites listed below offer a variety of literacy activities covering a wide age and/or grade span.

<http://www.starfall.com>

A free website geared towards kindergarten, first and second grade students. It contains exciting interactive books and phonics games.

<http://www.scholastic.com/kids/home.htm>

This website offers book reviews from students, book excerpts, and games.

<http://www.rif.org/readingplanet>

"Reading is Fundamental" (RIF) sponsors this website. It consists of games and activities to encourage reading among children 6-15.

<http://www.eduplace.com>

Click on STUDENTS. On the bottom of the page are different domains: Wacky Web Tales, Current Events, Brain Teasers, Using the Web, Games

<http://www.readingrockets.org/>

Reading Rockets offers reading strategies, lessons, and activities designed to help young children learn reading skills.

<http://www.readwritethink.org/beyondtheclassroom/summer/>

Summer literacy activities K-12

<http://www.magickeys.com/books/links.html>

Award winning links to children's storybooks online

<http://pbskids.org/stopandgo/>

Children can write the ending to stories on their own or with the help of a character.

<http://www.literactive.com/Home/index.asp>

A variety of stories to read or that can be read aloud and fun activities.

<http://www.spinandspell.com/>

An interactive spelling game for word recognition and spelling practice.

<http://www.storylineonline.net/>

An on-line streaming video program featuring stars reading children's books aloud. Each book includes accompanying activities.

<http://www.magneticpoetry.com/kidspoetry/playonline.cfm>

Children can create their own poems with the many words provided.

<http://www.gigglepoetry.com>

Hundreds of poems for children to read and rate.

<http://funbrain.com>

FunBrain has over 60 games. Almost all games are arcade or mathematics related. There are a few web books available.

<http://www.magickeys.com/books/>

Scroll down the page to find free storybooks that young children, older children, and young adults can read.

<http://www.harcourtschool.com/index.html>

The spelling section is an interactive spelling game at various levels.

<http://www.gamequarium.com>

Scroll midway down this webpage. There are many different activities for PreK - Grade 6.

<http://littlecritter.com>

Here you can have fun with Little Critter through printables, games, and interactive stories. There are videos of author/illustrator Mercer Mayer reading some books. Flash player is needed for many of the interactive elements.

<http://www.ipl.org/kidspace/browse/rzn>

Reading Zone - books and authors: Many links to sites about favorite children's authors.